Jabez Healey and his brother-in-law John Fobes came from Vermont together to look for land in 1803. They rode through from Lake Champlain on horseback following the township lines marked by the surveyors. Arriving at the falls of Raquette River, on the east side, they saw no one, but discovered a raft of cedar logs moored to the bank. They embarked on this; Mr. Healey poling the raft across the stream, while Mr. Fobes held the bridles of the horses, which swam behind the rude craft.

Arriving on the other side, they found land-agent Raymond standing in the door of his log office, with a bottle of rum ready to welcome the newcomers. Mr. Raymond was the only man in the immediate vicinity, the hired men being at work in the woods.

The two men spent two or three weeks in examining the country, and finally both took contracts for land, about five miles from the falls, near the road to Canton. This road and several others were surveyed by Raymond that summer; all running in almost exactly straight lines, and all centering at the falls, where he intended there should be a village. The road from Stockholm to Canton was cleared of underbrush during the summer so that teams could pass.

After Healey and Fobes had selected their land they returned to Vermont, and then Healey and his eldest son, Amasa, came back to Potsdam the same fall, with packs on their backs, to prepare a place for the family.

They built a log house on the land, and cut down two or three acres of timber around it. The nearest house in which a family lived was four miles west, in the present town of Canton, and there for a while Mr. Healey and his son boarded. The youngster, however, gave up and declared that he couldn't go four miles night and day and live entirely on venison and corn bread and chop all day besides. Mr. Healey then went to Ogdensburg and bought some groceries, and they put up a hut in which they lived during the rest of their labors. When these were finished, they again returned to Vermont with their packs on their backs.

Early the next spring (1804) Mr. Healey came through, with his wife, eight or ten children, three horses, and a lot of cattle. They went to St. Regis; then up the Grasse River on the ice to Canton, and then across to their new home, that being the only available road. Versal, his 7th son, was then only a year old.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Fobes also brought their family in the spring of 1804, and in the course of the season, many others came, including a large proportion of those who took land the previous year. Among those who are known to have come in 1804 were Christopher Wilson, Benjamin Bailey, Joseph Bailey and his sons Nathaniel and Ansel.

Benjamin Bailey arrived in Potsdam, New York on 24 October 1803.

Benjamin Bailey's second wife came from Georgia, Vermont with her family, who were among the first settlers of Nicholville, St. Lawrence County, New York.

Benjamin Bailey was in Potsdam in 1810, 1815, 1820. Alexander Bailey was in Potsdam in 1820.

Benjamin Bailey left Shoreham, Vermont in 1803 and settled in Potsdam, St. Lawrence County, New York. He was a prominent and much respected citizen, being one of the early supervisors of Potsdam. He enlisted in the first militia company in St. Lawrence County, organized in 1804. He was Lieutenant in 1805, later Captain and seems to have preceded his brothers in moving to that area.

John BAYLEY was born in Weymouth, and was made a Freeman in the Massachusetts Bay Colony on 23 May 1677. He went to Scituate before 1670 to take charge of the farm of Captain John Williams at the Neck.

I give and bequeath to my Ancient servant John BAYLEY of Scituate All that my ffarm on which he now liveth with all my upland, meadow land or marsh lying near to the same vizt that in Conihasset neck and that at or near ffane Island and said Islands with my meadow in the sixty acres of marsh so-called, and, also one moiety or half a share of Conihasset undivided land, to hold to him his heirs and Assigns forever, provided he shall pay and I hereby order him to pay out of it the rents and proffits thereof in Good mercantable pay to such of my Legates as I shall nominate the sume of one hundred pounds and to pay the same at ten severall times of payment in equall proportions, that is to say ten pounds per year every year till the whole is paid. (from the will of Captain John Williams)

When John Bailey of Scituate was fined three shillings and four pence for his altercation with his employer the latter paid. Not so John Bailey. He refused to be mulcted for a fight in which he was not the agressor. For fourteen years this amount was annually carried upon the books as due "the countrey". In 1674 mention of it ceases but the credit side of the ledger does not record that it was paid.

John BAYLEY was born in Weymouth, Massachusetts and was made Freeman in the Massachusetts Bay Colony 23 May 1673. He was a non-commissioned officer in some of the early military companies of Weymouth. In 1664, 1667, and 1674/5, Corporal John Bayley was chosen fence viewer for Weymouth. On 7 Mar 1669/70, he was chosen way warden. In 1671, John Bayley and others were chosen to arrange with their reverend pastor how much he should receive per annum.

In 1675/6 during King Philip's War, he received a military promotion, "Sergeant John Bayley Commissioner from Weymouth to Boston twice."

At the opening up of lands in Freetown, Massachusetts, in 1683, John Bayley of Weymouth and Thomas Drake, bought land and removed there about 1685. His wife's name was Hannah. He died 22 June 1686.

Thomas BAYLEY was killed in King Philip's War in 1675. "He was impressed into the service of the colony from Weymouth during King Philip's War, and was killed at the battle of Bloody River, between Deerfield and Hadley."

"30 Mar 1679 John Reed bought land of Thomas Bayley, late of Weymouth."

On 26 Mar 1676, a petition was sent from Weymouth to the Committee on Military Affairs, asking for the return of the men from Weymouth, who were out on the frontier, in the Connecticut Valley, so that they could defend their own firesides, for the enemy was at their very doors. On 12 Oct 1676, an abatement was made by the general court in favor of Weymouth, on account of its losses by the enemy, and the taxes of those persons "Slayne in the war," were levied on the whole town.

There were four of the name Bailey - Bayley among the early settlers of Massachusetts: Thomas of Weymouth; James and Richard (brothers) of Rowley; and John of Salisbury.

Thomas Bayley Sr. (Old Planter) of Wessagussett was admitted as a freeman in the Massachusetts Bay Colony on 13 May 1640. He was the first of the Bayley name in New England.

His wife's name is unknown. They had the following children: John, Thomas, Samuel, and Esther.

Thomas Bayley's farm and home of 25 acres was located on the southerly side of King Oak Hill and was bounded on the west by Rockey Hill, Rockey Glen, or Rockey Nook, on the old Indian Trail. leading from East Weymouth to Weymouth Landing, crossing what is now Essex Street, near the town farm. The cellar hole of his house and all his farm lands are still traceable today (1899).

"In 1644 Thomas Dyer sould unto Thomas Baylie, the 21st of the 3rd month, his dwelling-house, Barne, and Sellar, his garden and yarde, both of them contayning by estimation, one quarter of an acre of land being more or lesse, bounded on the East with the land of Robert Lovell, on the West with the land of Mr. Webb, on the North with the land of saied Thomas Dyer, and on the South a highwaie."

This sale of real estate is one of the first records placed on the books of the town of Weymouth. Thomas Bayley also received land in the first and second division of lands in Weymouth and he owned land at Weary Land in Hingham.

He was a prominent man of the town in his day, and held many offices. In 1643 he was appointed one of the appraisers of the estate of William Fry of Weymouth. In 1655 he was one of the appraisers of the estate of Elizabeth Pitty of Weymouth. In March 1655, Thomas Bayley and William Chard were chosen constables to serve for the ensuing year.

His wife was probably not living at the time of his death, as he makes no mention of her in his will. He died in 1681 and was probably buried in the Old North Cemetery, in North Weymouth.

Thomas Bayley was on a list of 14 Dec 1663 for lots in the first and second division beginning on the Braintree Line in Weymouth, and he received lot 31 in the division of 2 Feb 1651/2 in Weymouth.

The town of Weymouth, Norfolk County, Massachusetts, was formerly called the plantation of Wessaguscus. On 2 Sep 1635, the name was changed to Weymouth. On 3 Sep 1635, bounds between Weymouth and Hingham were established. On 9 Mar 1637, Round Island and Grape Island were granted to Weymouth, and on 31 Mar 1647, bounds between Weymouth and Abington were established.
